New Baltimore Bibliophiles Bookmarks/Handouts!

At the July 27th meeting, Nancy Magnuson distributed the new Baltimore Bibliophiles bookmarks/handouts that she had designed and printed. They are beautiful! If you would like one, or if you would like several to deposit in an appropriately bookish place, please contact Nancy via email: nancymagnuson@comcast.net

Of Interest

Lately, I've discovered two sites which you may find of interest. The first is Library Link of the Day. <https://www.tk421.net/librarylink/> From their website: The Library Link of the Day provides you a daily link for keeping up to date with the library profession. Destinations include the latest library news, good reads on the web, and other valuable resources that a library knowledge worker should know about. The link is presented without commentary. Links always lead to free content, but sometimes require registration (also free).

The second is Literary Hub: <https://lithub.com/> From their website: Literary Hub is an organizing principle in the service of literary culture, a single, trusted, daily source for all the news, ideas and richness of contemporary literary life. There is more great literary content online than ever before, but it is scattered, easily lost—with the help of its editorial partners, Lit Hub is a site readers can rely on for smart, engaged, entertaining writing about all things books. Each day—alongside original content and exclusive excerpts—Literary Hub is proud to showcase an editorial feature from one of its many partners from across the literary spectrum: publishers big and small, journals, bookstores, and non-profits.

Show & Tell

If you've recently added something to your collection (personal or institutional) and would like to "share with the class," please consider bringing your new or newly discovered item to a future meeting of the BIBS. We typically allow one "Show & Tell" before the guest speaker steps up to the podium. Time allotted: about 5 minutes. Please contact me prior to the actual meeting. Only one "Show & Tell" per meeting, due to time constraints.

2020 Membership Dues

2020 membership dues notices will be sent out in 202. You may pay your dues using check or PayPal. Dues are $55.00. Checks should be made payable to The Baltimore Bibliophiles. Please feel free to contact me with any questions.

Contributions to the Newsletter, etc.

Please feel free to contact Binnie Syril Braunstein, Newsletter Editor if you have newsworthy items you'd like to "share with the class." BSBGC@aol.com. To our bookseller members: please feel free to send me your newsletters, so that they can be forwarded to our members and friends.
